Unnayan could take forward its programs involving women members, families and villages in the districts of Mayurbhanj, Balasore, Jagatsinghpur and Bhadrak through the Mahila Shanti Sena, the Mayurbanj Mahila Co-operative and SHGs.

We are grateful to our donors, individual donors, Oxfam, Heifer, Butterflies, SEEDS, Mc Master University, Ananda Fund, Agriculture Department, OFSDP, Government of Odisha and all our well wishers for their timely support. We also express our thanks to our dedicated staff members, volunteers and members of local level institutions who are not only working relentlessly but also enjoying their work.

Exposure visit to PRADAN, Baliguda

☞ By using minimal water through drip irrigation the farmers are able to produce an impressive amount of seasonal vegetables. Water harvesting related to this agriculture is the result of efforts made by PRADAN to harvest water;

1. A regular flow of water to households is ensured by using gravity where possible.
2. By water from minor springs of ponds for flat and level areas this is done.

Unnati Path Goat Co-operative, Jargi : By interacting with members of Unnati Path Co-operative. THE MAKING OF A ROLE MODEL

BASANTI HANSDA

HEIFER INTERNATIONAL'S GOLDEN TALENT AWARD WINNER for 2012

Until 2010 Basanti Hansda lived the life of a typical poor tribal woman of Mayurbhanj, a district in the eastern Indian state of Odisha. Madhuria, her village, consists of about sixty families most of whom are either landless or with small plots of land. Basanti's is a joint family of fifteen members which includes her elderly in laws and her five year old son. Life was a struggle for this large family whose main source of income was the daily wages that could be earned from agricultural labour which is periodic and seasonal. To augment this income Basanti collected and sold sal leaves from the nearby forest.

In 2010 Basanti became a member of the Jaharay Self Help Group and joined Heifer India's Tribal Empowerment Through Sustainable Livelihood Programme. Two years into the programme it is a pleasure to visit Basanti in her well maintained, clean Santhali style mud house and meet the poised, self confident, committed and forward looking person she has become. The home environment speaks volumes about Basanti's ability to understand, absorb and put into practice all the training she has received so far.

With the three goats that she received from Heifer she has already passed on one female goat to the pass on family. She now has two male kids from the sale of which she will earn around six thousand rupees. She has planned to buy and pass on two more female goats to the pass on family. For better animal management she has built strong bamboo platforms for the goats. These platforms have now become a model for the rest of the community.

When one thinks of sustainability one can only marvel at what Basanti has been able to achieve with the Rs 3000/- loan that she took from the SHG. With Rs 1000/- she bought a pig. Now she has ten piglets each of which will fetch her Rs 1000/-. She bought four hens for Rs 500/-. Not only has she earned Rs 2500/- from her poultry but she also "loaned" four hens to four different needy families with the condition that when they get an income from it they would repay her loan by returning her a hen. She has already got back her four hens . She also invested Rs 1500/- in agriculture.

Apart from her thrust on income generation, Basanti has focused on nutrition for her family. Her kitchen garden is a sight for sore eyes with a variety of vegetable plants including drumstick, brinjal, papaya, colocosia, kunduri, banana, ladies finger and green chilies. She has also planted lemon and mango in her backyard. Santhal tribals are not particularly fond of vegetables and it is an achievement of sorts for Basanti to introduce fresh green vegetables in their daily diet.

With her own success with the kitchen garden Basanti has been creating awareness in the community about the need for fresh vegetables in the diet and how, with a little effort , it can be produced in a small patch. However, Basanti's activities are not confined to her own home and family. She is truly a role model for the community participating regularly as she does in the village cleanliness drive. She has also been taking a lead role in staging small plays based on the Heifer cornerstones.

Under her guidance and persistent effort all children from the village are now attending the pre school centre and regular school. Impressed with her community involvement, her sincerity and result oriented approach she has been selected to be a community health worker to provide health care services to the village, particularly pregnant women and young mothers. Mayurbhanj being a Malaria prone area Basanti has been working relentlessly to create awareness about Malaria and dengue , particularly about keeping the surroundings clean and using mosquito nets.

Sustainable Agriculture:

Agriculture is the major occupation of the people in this area. Considering the need of farmers Unnayan is undertaking various convergence programs for marginal and small farmers and share croppers. Farmers are now taking benefit of the schemes and programs meant for them from the Agriculture Department, Government of Odisha and NABARD. Through farmers clubs farmers are able to procure agriculture implements , paddy seeds and pesticides at the subsidized price. Exposure and training on improved agriculture practices has been welcomed by the farmers. SRI and line sowing method in paddy cultivation is becoming popular as they are getting almost double the yield in comparison to traditional agriculture method. The Agriculture Department , Government of Odisha with the support of Ngo partner is launching the program Beginning of Green Revolution in Eastern India.

VISION OF THE PROGRAMME

- ☞ Promotion of scientific method in Agriculture.
- ☞ Use of Improved variety of Seed and its treatment
- ☞ Reduction of Production Cost.
- ☞ Proper utilization of Land.
- ☞ Crop Diversification.
- ☞ Proper use of Rain Water.
- ☞ More Income from Agricultural Sector.
- ☞ Giving due Importance to Soil Health and use of Micronutrient.
- ☞ Protection of Environment.

Disaster Risk Reduction (DRR) Project:

Preparation of Community Contingency Plan

Balasore district is one of the disaster prone districts of Odisha where floods come every alternate year in the river Subarnarekha. During the floods people of the area suffer much as agriculture, which is a major occupation of the people, gets severely affected. Apart from agriculture, people suffer because of non availability of safe water. Personal hygiene, lack of food, clothing, shelter, communication, electricity, education of children, care of children and elderly persons, everything gets disturbed. In order to build resilient communities by addressing the issues of preparedness in the areas of WASH and food security in flood and cyclone prone areas in Balasore district of Odisha, Unnayan has been involved in a disaster risk reduction program with support from Oxfam India since the last 7 years. The specific objectives of this program are;

Training on WASH, First Aid and Rescue

- ☞ To improve community based preparedness specifically in the WASH sector to protect lives in Odisha.
- ☞ To secure livelihood through introduction of disaster resistance crops and by promoting alternative livelihood options.
- ☞ To ensure effective implementation of National Disaster Management Act 2005 and safety net programmes like NREGS, PDS and others.

Because of long time intervention of Unnayan local level institutions have been formed and are functioning effectively. Village development planning committees prepare their community contingency plans. The community contingency plans are placed in the Panchayat for implementation of activities as planned by the VDMC. Different vulnerable points have been identified to meet any disaster. This helps the task force team to provide service during disaster like first aid, rescue and relief operations, and information dissemination. Similarly GKS committees prepare their WASH plan by considering their WASH related problems and workout necessary solutions. School sanitation clubs are functioning at school level. Members of different sub committees are conscious about their role on water sanitation and personal hygiene.

Anganwadi workers, Asha workers, volunteers are trained to meet any disaster. Agriculture farmers have been united through farmers clubs and linkages established with agriculture department, Government of Odisha and NABARD. So that they can take advantage of government schemes meant for them. Line sowing method of paddy cultivation under BGREI and state plans have been widely accepted by the farmers. Farmers who had cultivated paddy in SRI and line sowing method have got double the usual yield in comparison to traditional method. The farmers of Jaleswar and Basta block are cultivating oil seeds and pulses by using scientific method. A few farmers are cultivating paddy with the support of NABARD. This DRR programme is helping people to be resilient to disaster and disaster like situations. The mindset on traditional practices on WASH or agriculture has started changing. Advocacy activities helps the people to undertake convergence programme in their villages.

Joyful Learning Centre for Tribal Children:

Annual Children's meet 2012

The Chatsali program was initiated in 2010 by Unnayan with the mission to provide educational assistance to tribal children in Rashgovindapur Block of Mayurbhanj District in Odisha. The objective of the program is to address language and social barriers that tribal children often face when they attend government run Odia medium schools. Now seven chatsali centres are running under the guidance of Shanthali speaking tribal teacher from their community.

Our second annual children's meet took place on 11th and 12th of June-2012 at the height of summer with the temperature hovering around 38°-40°, high humidity and frequent power cuts. We soon realized, however, that the weather had little bearing on the sheer joy and enthusiasm of the selected participants from the 7 Chatsalis, 4 Heifer Children's Clubs and 5 Children's Development Khazanas, a total of 126 members. They were accompanied by their Chatsali teachers, community elders or guardians.

The meet started with the inaugural session on 11th evening, with the lighting of the lamp near the portrait of Mahatma Gandhi and a brief sharing of the vision for the event. The guests were local leaders and they were happy to speak to the children about their own experience and give words of encouragement and advice.

The pre dinner session was a packed programme of story telling, singing and dancing. There was whole hearted participation and it was a treat to hear the singers who sang confidently in both Santhali and Odia. As for the dancers, they could have danced all night!

The early morning session on 12th was for athletics and mental maths. For relaxation there was Musical Chairs. After the excitement of the morning it was time for reflection and creativity, the drawing session. In the evening the second annual children's meet came to an end with prize distribution and address by Mr Dharmendra Mallick, the Block Development Officer.

We at Unnayan are amazed at the changes that we noticed in the children this time. There is a jump in the level of self confidence and they are clearly at ease with the spoken Odia language. They were more disciplined, participative and eager. It is going to be quite a challenge for us to plan the next meet !

CHILDRENS DEVELOPMENT

KHAJANA (CDK):

Unnayan is working with tribal children through this program which is supported by Butterflies , New Delhi and is functioning in 10 villages of Rashgovindapur Block of Mayurbhanj District. This year two CDK members , Harishankar Singh and Jhari Murmu got an opportunity to participate in the international children's co-operative workshop at Jaipur. A sharing of their experience in all CDK branches so encouraged the members and their parent that very soon three new centres opened in Astia, Kasafalia and Sivasahi.

In order to motivate other school students to become members of CDK meetings were organised in three residential schools Darkul, Jhatiada and Panaspada. The response of the students and teachers of the respective schools were encouraging and they are interested to open CDK centres in their schools.

Sixteen CHEs of eight CHC have undergone training on CHC and First Aid. They have started First aid services to the people in their villages.

Members of all CDK branches are participating in the village cleaning program of their own villages with the slogan Love India, Clean India.

CDK members of Nuasahi have planned to start a small business by taking an advance of Rs 50/- each from their savings and purchasing hen for rearing individually. It will bring them a small income from the sale of eggs and chicken.

Exposure visit to the nearest CDK centre, meeting with the Bank manager, regularly intervention and discussion on CDK /CHC by the adult facilitator inspires them to move forward.

Impressed with the outstanding work of CDK members, Gaon Kalyan Samiti(GKS) of Nuasahi offered an assignment to them to set up a "Jalchhatra" stall by the road side to provide free safe drinking water to the public during summer season. As per the decisions of the Gaon Kalyan Samiti a sum of Rs 400/- for 3 months will be paid to CDK Nuasahi. Village level institutions like SHGs, Schools, Banks, GKS , PHC have duly recognized CDK and CHC.

Achievement:

The parents of CDK members are sending their children to school and CDK centres regularly. Leadership quality of CDK members has developed. Now CVM and ACVM of

Mahila Shanti Sena: (Women Peace Corps)

Unnayan is taking the lead role in implementation of Mahila Shanti Sena in Odisha. MSS is a peace movement based on the Gandhian principles of peace and non violence. The movement is a process of establishing peace and harmony within the family, in the neighbourhood, and finally in the larger community. Started in the year 2005 it has spread to 18 districts of Odisha. The main objectives of MSS is ;

Give women a chance.
 Make them agents of change
 Help break the circle of poverty, violence and neglect...
 Each village community should be able to plan its total life in terms of economy, education, health and other matters pertaining to local life. The village community needs an army of peace workers, who will not fight among themselves but are willing to solve problems and resolve conflicts and disputes peacefully.
 In this task of neighbourhood-building, women are likely to be better than men. That is the rationale of Mahila Shanti Sena...
 Can we not use her (woman's) creative talents to make society more human and enlightened?
 -Acharya Ramamurti

Promotion of People's Institutions

Mayurbhanj Mahila Association :

Shri Debi Prasad Mishra, Minister of Animal Husbandry and Fishery, Government of Odisha is in front of our stall at Bhubaneswar and packing of Baripada Mudhi at Tambakhuri, Mayurbhanj

Mayurbhanj Mahila Association (MMA) is a sister organization of Unnayan. In the year 2001 it was formed by the local villagers as a Mudhi producer and marketing cooperative. Initially there were 24 members but gradually it has increased to 120 members. All the members along with 30 other village women are involved in production of mudhi (puffed rice). MMA is also marketing ambula (dried green mango), tamarind, mustard, kadhada, roasted gram, groundnuts and pulses. Initially Oxfam India supported MMA to run the business. Last year MMA has procured a piece of land for setting up its own office cum godown for Mudhi. As a model cooperative it attracts many visitors from Government and Non Government organization. It also grows with the support of ORMAS, district rural development agencies, cooperative banks, gramya banketc.

Baripada Mudhi :

Mudhi or puffed rice is popular not only in northern Odisha, but also all over Odisha. Unnayan found that Mudhi making can be a source of income for the poor, particularly the women. The brand name of mudhi is "Baripada Mudhi". All its products are made by hand and contain no artificial additives.

The demand for the Baripada Mudhi is higher than the supply. The average monthly sale of Mudhi is 70 quintals and each member is getting a monthly income of Rs 1500/-.

Last year a team of members participated in the Adibashi Mela at Bhubaneswar and had sold "Baripada Mudhi and mutton" of Rs 2,85,050/-

Sal Leaf Plate and Cup Making

Collection of sal leaves and its sale is the general occupation of tribal women since time immemorial. Sometimes their children and other family members support them in collecting the sal leaves from the near by forest. In order to provide a better income to them Unnayan discussed with the SHG members the benefit of preparing leaf cup and plate by machine. Initially 19 members were indentified to prepare sal leaf plate and cups. Now 25 women members are preparing leaf cup and plate and earning Rs 4000/- per month.

Similarly, Sabai craft is another traditional practice. Tribal women, particularly in Morada Block prepare rope and craft items from sabai grass. They also cultivate sabai grass.

With the support of Development Commissioner Handicraft, New Delhi, Unnayan organized a training program for the selected artisan of sabai grass craft. Now they are involved in the preparation of sabai grass craft and selling their items in exhibitions.

Incense stick making:

Incense stick making program is continuing since the last 3 years for the economic benefit of tribal women. 74 women of Tikayatpur and 35 women from Berhampura and Rasagovindapur blocks of Mayurbhanj District are involved in this activity. They are preparing it manually and getting around Rs 1500 per month. Indian Tobacco company is supporting this activity by providing raw material and marketing support.

Similary 32 women at Tambakhuri and 35 women member at Kakabandha are working in these two incense stick making unit. They are preparing it by machine. As the output is more by the use of mechine all the members are getting Rs 3000 to Rs 3500 per month.

Janani Maha Mahila Mandal:

Janani is one of the sister organizations of Unnayan. It came into being after the super cyclone which hit Odisha in the year 1999 causing huge loss to life and property.

While exploring the possibility of livelihood options it was found that women of Baiikuda Block under Jagatsinghpur District prepare traditional craft items by using golden grass which is available in plenty in the area. In order to provide some economic benefit to the women, Unnayan started its activities there.

Development Commissioner Handicraft, New Delhi provided the financial support for conducting skill and design development training for the selected golden grass craft artisan. Now 350 members are engaged in preparation of golden grass craft. 100 women are involved in livestock rearing and other 50 members are managing their own small enterprises.

It is our pleasure that the craft items have attracted many craft lovers from in and out side the state and abroad.

Last year there has been a good sales of these golden grass craft items at the Nature Bazar exhibition at New Delhi.

Marketing of Golden Grass Products:

Unnayan is providing marketing and skill upgradation support to artisans. It has established marketing linkages with different organizations and individuals who are working for its promotion. Every year artisans from Janani are going to participate in the state and national level exhibitions to sell their craft items.
